Short Description

The athlete wants to train safely and comfortably and the gym owner has the task of optimizing that training. Both things are achieved by incorporating professional devices such as the Athletic Half Rack from the Titanium Strength X-line.

And we don't say that. It's proven.

A bodybuilding rack like this is indispensable in any professional gym. What's more, it's the perfect device for bodybuilders and demanding athletes who perform more pro workouts than usual. That's why it also sells great when it comes to setting up a quality home gym.

Because the versatility of a device like this, which allows you to train all muscle groups as well as store Olympic discs, is an advantage when it comes to creating and maintaining a professional environment in your gym.

Description

Why you should buy the Titanium Strength RA10 Commercial Athletic Half Rack - X Line?

It is already clear to us that with this bodybuilding rack it is possible to do a professional strength workout, but we have not talked about its quality on a technical level, which is what makes this rack one of the best on the market.

Its sturdy structure supports loads of up to 1102,31 lbs and provides the safety the bodybuilder needs when lifting long bars with weight. That, added to the extra security of its j-hooks and magnetic spotters through a special system patented by Titanium Strength make this half-rack the desire of any professional athlete.

With the combination of a weight bench it is possible to do a complete workout that includes the work of all muscle groups in a single machine. Exercises for back, shoulders, biceps, dead weights, squats, strides, lunges...
The possibilities are endless!

And yes, assembly is easy and fast, as with any Titanium Strength machine.

Are you going to keep thinking about it or are you already convinced that you need a professional rack like this
