Short Description

Offer to your gym users a comfortable and safe way to strengthen the major muscle groups of the upper body with the Titanium Strength Black Series Pec Fly and Rear Delt. Users will be able to perform supersets of shoulder and chest exercises without having to change machines: pectoral crunch (butterflies or pec deck) and reverse flies to work the rear deltoids. All this through a personalized experience: the adjustable seat bottom and pivoting arms allow users to get into the right position. In addition, the double grip allows you to activate different muscles so that the preparation is complete.

Description

Why should you buy the Titanium Strength Black Series Pec Fly and Rear Delt?

With the compact and multifunctional design of the Titanium Strength Black Series Pec Fly & Rear Deltoids, you can expand your training offering and save valuable space.

This machine does double duty, allowing you to perform two key types of exercises to build strength efficiently. On the one hand, with chest openings, you will focus all the effort on the pectoral fibers, obtaining muscle congestion and promoting hypertrophy. Reverse flies, on the other hand, target your upper and core back muscles, providing safe and challenging isolation.

The Titanium Strength Black Series Pec Fly and Rear Delt is your perfect ally to expand your training routine and make the most of your space. You won't need multiple machines to work the pectorals and deltoids, since this technological marvel combines both functions in a single piece of equipment.
